1 Summary

This document outlines the structure and procedures of Scouting Ireland's National Awards scheme, including Service, Merit, and Honour Awards. It explains the objective criteria for each award, the nomination process, and the role of the National Awards Project Team in reviewing applications. The document also details the proper wearing of awards and emphasizes that nominations must be thorough and accurately completed for fair consideration.

2 Introduction

Scouting Ireland has a National Awards scheme comprised of the following:

- Service Awards for length of Service,
- Meritorious Awards for service above the normal,
- Honour Awards for special acts of heroism, bravery, courage, endurance, and devotion to Scouting under difficulties.

As a National System this affords status and allows all nominations to be judged objectively according to the national criteria. The exception to this is Service Awards, which are in recognition of length of Adult Service. Merit Awards and Honour Awards are not awarded automatically. They are awarded following the submission of correctly detailed citations in accordance with the Scouting Ireland National Awards Policy.

In every case these must be submitted by the appropriate Scouter at either Group, County, Provincial, or National Level.

3 The Wearing of Awards

National Awards are worn on the Uniform by Adult Scouters. Only the highest award of each category is to be worn and the previous award from the same category removed.

4 The National Awards Project Team

Scouting Ireland's Volunteer & Group Support Core Team appoints the National Awards Project Team Lead and Members of the National Awards Project Team. The National Awards Project Team Lead and Members of the National Awards Project Team are drawn from individuals with a wide range of experience within Scouting Ireland, following an open call. The National Awards Project Team will consider each nomination application against the Scouting Ireland National Award Policy criteria to ensure that consistency is maintained for each award. While the Award Project Team intends to achieve an equitable balance in applying the criteria, it will be readily understood that the Team relies heavily on fully detailed, fair, comprehensive, and accurate information provided in the Nomination Application Form. It is solely based on what is submitted in the Nomination Application Form that the Awards Project Team considers the appropriate Merit Award or Honour Award to be granted.

Proposers for Merit or Honour Awards must understand that, while they have an in-depth knowledge of the nominee, it would be unusual for any of the Award Project Team to share this level of knowledge or be familiar with the individual's contribution and service. This informs the requirement for a full and properly prepared citation. The Awards scheme depends on Nomination Application Forms being submitted in a timely and correct manner from the Scout Group, Scout County, Scout Province or National body, with the properly prepared citations for consideration.

The Awards Coordinator is a staff member of Scouting Ireland, and they undertake the day-to-day administration of the Awards. The Awards Coordinator will work with the Awards Project Team to prepare the list of Nominations for the relevant Awards Project Team meetings.

All enquiries should be sent to:

awards@scouts.ie

5 Training Requirements

Individual Scouters have a responsibility to complete the training appropriate to their current appointments. In circumstances where the Wood Badge Beads have not been achieved, it is considered inappropriate to grant any award. It is difficult to justify a claim of meritorious service where the nominee has not fulfilled the training obligation entered into when accepting the appointment. The Awards Project Team is always prepared to consider exceptional cases where appropriate training has not been completed for good reason, but full details of the extenuating circumstances must be provided when completing the Nomination Application Form.

6 The Role of the Group / County

It is the responsibility of Groups and Counties to maintain proper records to permit effective consideration and review of awards for all members and support members as registered through the Scouting Ireland

Membership Management System (Database).

7 Completing the Application

It is important to remember that information provided to the Award Project Team on the Nomination Application Form will be used to assess the appropriate award for the nominee. While those compiling the citation and recommendation may know the nominee well, it would be unwise to assume that the Project Team has any knowledge of the nominee. Consequently, the citation should contain appropriate examples or evidence of meritorious service to allow the Team to form a proper and informed opinion.

8 The following Scouters may submit a Nomination Application Form:

- Group Leaders: For members of their Group.
- County Commissioners: For County personnel and Group Leaders.
- Provincial Commissioners: For Provincial personnel and County Commissioners.
- Other: For National Team Project Members and Provincial Commissioners.

The Awards Project Team, at their sole discretion may accept applications from persons other than the above, where deemed appropriate.

9 Points to Note;

Nomination Applications may be submitted at any time during the year, and these will be reviewed at the relevant meeting of the Awards Project Team.

- 31st December (for Founder's Day or St. Patrick's Day)
- 31st March (for Summer Camps presentations etc.)
- 31st August (for new Scout Year events).

Very occasionally, it may be appropriate for what would otherwise be a Founder's Day/St. Patrick's Day award to be made at a different time of year and a request, outlining the special circumstances, may be put forward. Of particular importance in this category, are cases where it is discovered that someone has been diagnosed as having a terminal illness and consideration for an award needs to be expedited. These cases are always given urgent and sympathetic consideration, and it is advised that the Awards Project Team Lead is alerted that such an application is on its way. In such circumstances, applications by email can be accepted.

Service Awards relate to Adult Service with Scouting Ireland (or its Former Scouting Associations). Unfortunately, it is often the case that those who move frequently, giving consistently high-quality service wherever they go, are overlooked for awards for meritorious service. When it is known that service to Scouting has been rendered elsewhere, whether in another Group, County or Province, and the present quality of service suggests that an award might be appropriate, supporting evidence from an appropriate Scouter/Commissioner in the other Group, County or Province should be obtained and forwarded to the Awards Co-ordinator at National Office.

Scouting Ireland Awards are intended to recognise Adult Service rendered within Scouting Ireland (or its Former Scouting Associations). However, the citation may also include reference to Scouting in another WOSM/WAGGGS recognised Scout or Guide Association.

Awards should not be made based on 'retirement gifts. No age limit is set for the receipt of awards, and the quality of service is the overriding consideration.

It is important to note that apart from the Order of Cú Chulainn, awards have a recommended requirement of a minimum length of service. Another award will not be considered until a further period of service of the same or greater quality has been rendered. While some flexibility is exercised, this is only done where an exceptional case is made by the nominating Group Leader / Commissioner.

At no time should nominees be informed that an application for an award has been made on their behalf.

Canvassing of the Awards Project Team or Individual Members of the Awards Project Team for any Award may disqualify the Nominee from the Award.

Where a required 'signatory' to the application form is also the nominee, an alternative signatory must be sought. The most likely example is where a Group Leader, County Commissioner or Provincial Commissioner is nominated, in which case an application (by email to the Awards Co-ordinator) from the Group/County/Provincial Secretary would be an acceptable as an appropriate alternative.

In the instance where spouses/partners involved in Scouting are nominated for consideration for Merit or Honour Awards simultaneously. It is important that each Nomination Application is considered on its own merit. Where this is the case, it should be understood, that it is possible that one award may be accepted while the other may be made at a different level or even rejected. Nominating Group Leaders/Commissioners should therefore consider these 'double applications' very carefully.

Where the nominee is the spouse/partner of a nominating Group Leader/Commissioner, or a family member, it is preferable that an appropriate third party, such as the Group/County/Provincial Chairman or Secretary, should make the application (via email to the Awards Co-ordinator at National Office).

All adult members can be considered for awards, no matter what position they hold. The criteria for awards are the same for all, except that Scouters are expected to have completed the obligatory training appropriate to their current appointment.

It is a requirement that a nominee be currently a registered member of Scouting Ireland in keeping with the current membership policy. And a member of 'Good Standing'.

It is a requirement that a nominee has current and in date Garda/Access NI Vetted before an award application for meritorious service can be considered.

It is a requirement that a nominee has current and in date Safeguarding Training before an award application for meritorious service can be considered.

Individuals whose service is rendered at Group level are equally eligible for Merit Awards as are those who are active in Counties or Provinces. Merit Awards recognise the quality of service provided to Scouting, not the appointment in which that service is being rendered.

There is no maximum number of applications that can be submitted by each Group/County/Province to the Awards Project Team via the Awards Co-Ordinator.

The Merit Awards are not a ladder. It may be appropriate for a nominee to be recommended directly for a Gold Award or even the Order of Cú Chulainn given the appropriate length and quality of service, particularly if the candidate has been previously overlooked. It is helpful if the apparent neglect or oversight is explained in the citation being presented through the Nomination Application Form.

10 The Awards

10.1 Service Awards

These awards are not related to Merit Awards and may be given to anyone fulfilling the criteria.

Group and County Secretaries are responsible for keeping service records of all their Scouters, Associate Members. Regular and frequent reviews of records should be carried out to ensure that there is no delay in applying for these awards, where appropriate.

Service Awards are awarded to adult Members and Associate Members of the Scouting Ireland after completion of 2, 5, 10, 15, 20, 25, 30, 40, 50, 60, and 70 years of adult service.

Nomination for Service Awards should be made using the link below or by scanning the QR Code.

https://docs.google.com/forms/d/e/1FAIpQLSeE7M_Duj0DDjo6QBn70XmufCvH5yNFjbe20zwWNZczx7h9_g/viewform

Any service given, whilst holding an adult appointment whilst a member of Scouting Ireland, counts towards the service awards. This includes service such as Chairman, Secretary, Treasurer, Group Council Member etc. It should be noted that occasional helpers do not accrue service unless an appointment is held concurrently.

10.2 Merit Awards

10.2.1 Chief Scout's Commendation of Merit

The Chief Scout's Commendation of Merit is given in respect of not less than 2 years meritorious service, which stands out. It should be regarded as the Chief Scout's recognition of the very real contribution made to the Association by the individual concerned. In exceptional circumstances, it may be awarded to a youth member where there is no provision for recognition under the Scouting Irelands ONE Programme.

10.2.2 Bronze Merit Award

The Bronze Merit Award is awarded for service of an exceptional character. It implies keen, conscientious, imaginative, and dedicated service over a sustained period or a recommended period of 7 years.

10.2.3 Silver Merit Award

The Silver Merit Award is awarded for exceptional and notable service to Scouting over a sustained period or a recommended period of 15 years.

10.2.4 Gold Merit Award

The Gold Merit Award is awarded for leadership of the most inspiring kind in Scouting over a sustained period or a recommended period of 25 years. The Gold Merit Award is not normally awarded until another Merit Award has been gained and a further five years' service has been completed. Thus, it is seldom awarded for less than 25 years' service, which should be especially distinguished and appreciably better than outstanding.

There are occasions when a Gold Merit Award may be awarded without a Chief Scout's Commendation of Merit, Bronze Merit Award or Silver Merit Award having been gained first.

It sometimes happens that a person has not been awarded a Merit Award but has given particularly good service for 30 years or more without any award. The Gold Merit Award might then be appropriate, but only where, say, the last ten years' service has been especially distinguished.

10.2.5 Order of Cú Chulainn

The Order of Cú Chulainn is awarded for profound and long service to Scouting. It is not normally awarded until at least a Gold Merit Award has been gained. In practice this means that it is seldom awarded for less than 30 years' service although it may be awarded in a shorter period of time to a nominee for services to Scouting at a European or World level.

Applications for Merit and Honour Awards can be made by using the Profile of the Candidate through the Member Management System or by email to the Awards Team Lead. Applications must be from the candidates Scout Group, Scout County or Scout Province as outlined above.

10.2.6 The Citation

Awards for meritorious service are made to those who render to Scouting Ireland outstanding, especially distinguished, or exceptional service. Length of service, while one of the criteria for a meritorious service award, is separately recognised by Service Awards. Meritorious Service Awards are made to those whose contribution to Scouting stands out and the citation should seek to explain and evidence how this is so. What makes the service meritorious, is the manner in which the duties have been performed. This may mean that, in addition to running a good Section programme, the nominee has, for example given regular meritorious service raising funds for the Group, in the maintenance of a Scout Den or campsite, in the organisation of County events, serving on a campsite service team, editing a website, helping with adult training in the County / Province, and so forth. All of this should be recorded in the citation. However, the successful organisation of a single large event, while praiseworthy, is not normally sufficient on its own to justify an award for meritorious service, since it is sustained meritorious service over a period, which is recognised by meritorious service awards.

Where possible, it is helpful to quantify in the citation the benefit derived because of the meritorious service given. For example, someone running a good, lively programme will almost certainly show an increase in membership or sustained full membership of their Section. For someone battling against the odds in an area of disadvantage, the fact that they have continued to run the Section over a significant period, maintaining numbers and providing a new dimension to the lives of young people, possibly in the face of local community indifference, is noteworthy.

Although Merit Awards primarily relate to service rendered to Scouting, service with other organisations and associations (such as the Girl Guides, Red Cross or Order of Malta) may be considered, where this has been in connection with Scouting (for example, as a Skills Instructor or Examiner) and should also be included in the citation. If the individual has given service to the community as well as to Scouting, this should be noted in the application.

While it is appropriate to indicate within the citation whether, in the applicant's opinion, the service has been good, outstanding, specially distinguished, or exceptional, it is not considered appropriate to request in the citation any indication of the level of award, which is being sought is not enough for the citation to be a mere narrative. It must contain qualitative judgements and information.

10.3 Honour Awards for Scouting Under Difficulties

10.3.1 Honour Awards

These can be awarded to any member (adult or youth), for acts of bravery in the face of danger where life has been at risk. Where several candidates have been involved in a brave or gallant act, generally awards will be made to each individually. It may be appropriate for the applicant to distinguish between nominees who have made a major contribution to an incident and those who have been in supporting roles so that the Board may recommend awards at different levels as appropriate. The fullest details of the incident and of the way in which the nominee responded should be given in the report. Wherever possible, statements of evidence from eyewitnesses should be included. As far as is practicable, the nominee should not be informed that an application is being made. Sometimes it is difficult to gather the necessary information without recourse to the nominee or their close relatives or friends, but in so doing no undertaking should be given that an award may be forthcoming. Applications should be made speedily and as soon after the event as possible. At the same time as making the recommendation to the Awards Project Team to recognise a brave or gallant act, Group Leaders/County Commissioners/Provincial Commissioner are urged to write to the nominee offering congratulations on his/her actions. It is not necessary to await the outcome of an award application before sending such a letter.

Group Leader/Commissioners often express concern that, for certain acts of bravery and devotion to duty under suffering, they do not know which award to apply for (Merit or Honour). If an award for gallantry is being sought, but the Project Team is unable to accept that there was risk to life, the application will not necessarily fail since the Project Team will consider whether a Meritorious Award is appropriate instead.

10.3.2 Scouting under Difficulties

An Honour Award can be made to any member (adult or youth) either for acts of bravery in which there has been no risk of life, or for courage and devotion to duty under suffering.

As is the case of gallantry, awards are not made to groups, but to individuals, and it may be considered appropriate that some members of a group would receive an Honour Award and others the Chief Scout's Commendation of Merit.

As with Honour Awards, where the award is being sought for an act of bravery without risk to life, early application should be made, and the Group Leader/Commissioner should acknowledge the deed by writing a congratulatory letter to the nominee. Again, nothing should be said which might raise the hopes of the nominee that he/she will receive an award.

Applications in respect of courage and devotion to duty under difficulties should be accompanied, if possible and appropriate, by independent medical evidence. Where the reasons for seeking such evidence are given, members of the medical profession are usually willing to make a supportive statement, but some refuse to do so, and others will only confirm that the nominee is their patient. It is often the case when applications are made for an Honour Award for young people that their parents become involved in providing evidence. While the reasons for this are understood, it is a practice that is to be discouraged since expectations might not be fulfilled.

Where a medical condition is not immediately life threatening, time and care should be taken to submit a full and well-reasoned application together with a clear indication that the nominee has acted with courage, determination and fortitude. [Simply because someone is suffering from a prolonged, debilitating or terminal illness does not justify an award - the requisite Scout-like qualities should be clearly displayed.]

Sadly, it occurs occasionally that the nominee will be suffering from a terminal illness with a limited life expectancy. The Project Team has a procedure for dealing with such cases extremely quickly – in days rather than weeks – but the need for expeditious processing must be made clear when the application is submitted. If contemplating making such an application, it is as well to contact the Awards Co-ordinator in advance for advice and to give prior warning of the submission. In such circumstances, applications by email can be accepted.

10.3.3 Checklist when making an Application for an Honour Award

It is recommended that the checklist is worked through, and the necessary information assembled before commencing the application.

- 1) Is the supporting evidence complete, especially in respect of medical evidence where appropriate?
- 2) In medical cases:
 - When did the condition first arise?
 - Was it a congenital condition which the nominee had grown up with before joining Scouting?
 - How does that affect the situation?
 - If everyone in the same Section (e.g. Scout Troop) had the same disability, would the nominee still merit special commendation?
 - Is there an emotive element present because of the disability? What is the prognosis?
 - Is the condition life threatening?
 - How long has the condition lasted?
 - How much pain and suffering (e.g. surgery, treatment, medication, etc.) has been involved?
 - What effect has it had on the nominee as regards their commitment to Scouting?
 - Is the time appropriate for an Award?
 - How long has the nominee been in Scouting?
 - Would it be better to wait until there is more experience of how he/she copes with the disability, grows older and has increased responsibilities, etc.?
- 3) Where the nominee has been involved in rescue or preventative action, etc.
- 4) Has there been a cool appraisal of the situation or does it appear to be emotive?
- 5) Did Scout training e.g. first aid, dealing with emergencies, leadership skills, etc. influence the nominee's action?
- 6) Was the action taken more or less than one would have expected having regard to the age and experience of the nominee and Scout training received?
- 7) How much personal risk was involved?
- 8) Did the nominee suffer any ongoing ill effects (e.g. injury, trauma, etc.)?
- 9) Was the nominee acting entirely in the course of professional duty (e.g., as a member of one of the emergency services who might reasonably be expected to make their own form of recognition?). Is the fact that he / she is involved in Scouting relevant in any way at all?
- 10) In making a recommendation, Group Leader / Commissioners should compare, as far as they are able, the application against the background of similar awards previously granted in their Group / County.
- 11) Other points to be taken into consideration in rescue or preventative action cases:

- Has a congratulatory letter been sent? The earlier some recognition is given to the nominee the better, especially as there is always the possibility that an application for a national award (which inevitably takes time to compile and process) may not be successful.
- 12) How long has it been after the incident before an application is submitted recommending an award? It is sometimes the case that so many months elapse that all benefit and impact of making the award is lost.
 - 13) How was attention drawn to the incident/situation? Was it from the Group, a parent or a member of the public, Press, etc.?
 - 14) Posthumous Awards. Posthumous Awards are not normally given except in the case of awards for gallantry, where the individual concerned dies because of the incident.

11 Despatching of Awards

Awards, when approved, following verification of recipients standing in the Organisation, will normally be sent to County Commissioners. An appropriate Certificate accompanies all Awards of the Association.

Please Note: On approval of Awards and following their issue to the County Commissioner these are then updated to the recipient's profile on the Scouting Ireland Member Management System.

11.1 Presentation of Awards and Certificates

The occasion of a presentation is an important one - to the Scouting Ireland and recipients of Awards and Certificates, as well as to their immediate relatives and colleagues in Scouting, Appropriate arrangements are essential to ensure that the occasion is dignified and memorable. It should where appropriate be carried out in Full Correct Uniform by the presenter and recipient.

11.2 Responsibility for Presentations

The County Commissioner should generally present the various Awards. In the case of a recipient being a County Commissioner, they should plan for the presentation to be done by an alternative appropriate person (e.g. Provincial Commissioner). Depending on the circumstances giving rise to the Award, the responsible Commissioner should ensure that the presentation is made in a dignified, meaningful and sensitive way, involving where possible the recipient's immediate family and, if appropriate, Scouting colleagues and friends.

Awards should be presented within two months of receipt. Long delays between the granting of the award and presentation are unacceptable.

11.2.1 Physical Arrangements

The place of the presentation should be a suitable one with a gathering of sufficient importance to give emphasis to the special occasion. Some thought should be given to the space required for the actual presentation. The area should be clear of furniture except for a table in the background on which to place the Awards and Certificates in readiness for presentation. Easy and uncluttered, approach and departure routes for recipients should be assured. Care should be taken to ensure communication of the information concerning the arrangements for presentation to all that will be concerned, including recipients. The Group/County Secretary/Public Relations Officer should make suitable publicity arrangements in conjunction with the local Press. Appropriate arrangements for Press photographers should be made, ensuring that they are able to get the photographs they need without impinging on or disrupting in any way the presentations.

11.2.2 Check Routine

The person responsible for the arrangements should make the following checks: -

- The Award is available together with the Certificate, correctly worded.
- If more than one Award and Certificate is to be presented, check that these are available on a handy table in the order in which the presentations will be made.
- It is usual to make presentations in ascending order, that is, lowest Award first, highest Award last. Certificates should be free from postal coverings.
- It is helpful to recipients to ensure that a suitable envelope or covering is made available so that Certificates arrive home clean, dry and uncreased.

11.2.3 Briefing

The organiser should brief all who will be concerned with the presentation on positioning, order of approach, method of approach and departure, and arrangements for photographs, e.g. whether Press and/or family photographs may be taken during the presentation or may be specifically posed before or after the presentation.

Procedure

The procedure for the presentation will vary according to the circumstances, but the following headings list the general items to be arranged: -

- Introduction of the person making the presentation, where necessary.
- Brief statement of the recipient's services, perhaps to include the wording on the certificate.
- Presentation – the Award and Certificate to be handed to the person making the presentation, who conveys his congratulations to the recipient.
- If there is more than one recipient, due importance will be given to each separate presentation.
- Thanks to the person making the presentation.
- The organiser will have planned for recipients to collect wrappings or boxes, or any ancillary items not presented, at some convenient time following the presentation.

12 Revocation of an Award (Meritorious Awards Only*)

12.1 Executive Summary

Scouting Ireland recognises our members who have given extra to the organisation through the awarding of Meritorious Awards*. Those who have been shown in a court of law to have tarnished this acknowledgement by Scouting Ireland and done so as registered members or past members of Scouting Ireland should no longer be entitled to the status or recognition of these Meritorious Awards*.

Meritorious Awards (include Bronze, Silver and Gold Merit Awards, Cu Chulainn Awards, Silver Wolfhound and Irish Elk Awards)*

This section outlines the official policy and process for the revocation of Meritorious Awards* within Scouting Ireland. It details the roles and responsibilities of those involved in initiating and authorising the revocation, specifies the process to be followed, and enumerates the grounds for revocation. Additionally, it provides guidance on post-revocation actions, such as notification and record updates, ensuring transparency and consistency across the organization.

12.2 Authority to Revoke an Award

- The Board of Scouting Ireland is authorised to revoke a Meritorious Award on the recommendation of the Awards Project Team

12.3 Who May Recommend Revocation

- Chief Executive Officer
- Dispute Resolution and Appeals Panel (DRAP)
- Safeguarding Officer

12.4 Grounds for Revocation

- Automatic Grounds
- Conviction for any sexual offence.
- Placement on the Sex Offenders Register.
 - Conviction for serious offences against the person.
 - Conviction for serious drug-related offences.

12.5 Discretionary Grounds

- Expulsion from Scouting Ireland.
- Conviction for a serious indictable criminal offence.
- Conduct deemed incompatible with the Scout Promise and Law through the disciplinary process.

12.6 Revocation Process

1. A formal recommendation is submitted to the CEO. Where the CEO makes the submission the Volunteer & Group Support Manager shall follow the steps outlined below.
2. The submission shall be verified by CEO of Scouting Ireland, or a person of their delegation.
3. The CEO shall forward this submission to the Volunteer & Group Support Department Manager.
4. The Department Manager shall forward the submission to the Awards Project Team Lead.
5. The Awards Project Team shall discuss the submission.
6. The Awards Project Team Lead shall notify the Department Manager of their deliberations.
7. The Department Manager shall notify the CEO & the Board of the outcome.
8. Records shall be amended by the relevant staff member to reflect the decision.

12.7 Post-Revocation Procedure

- The individual is notified in writing of the revocation by the Company Secretary on behalf of Scouting Ireland.
- Upon confirmation of revocation:
 - The recommending body/person is informed.
 - The Board of Directors is notified.
 - The award is removed from the individual's record and documented accordingly.

12.8 Additional Notes

- The award / Awards should be returned to Scouting Ireland. (The person may have more than one award)
- The name of this person will be removed from the Awards Register.
- As granted meritorious awards are public, revocations will be communicated to the relevant County Commissioner and Provincial Commissioners.

- This policy applies exclusively to Meritorious Awards* and does not affect Service or Honour Awards.

13 Sample Examples of Citations

The following citation is reproduced from a recent application. It is an example of one which tells the Project Team little, if anything, about the quality of service rendered by the nominee, although it repeats service information given elsewhere in the application.

“This village Scout Group was formed in 1967, when Liam joined as a Scout. Five years later he was appointed Assistant Scout Master. In 1974 he was appointed Scout Master, progressing to Unit Leader (CBSI) in 1979, and he continued in this position until he retired at age 65 years, when he became the Unit Chairman.

During his time as Group Leader the Group progressed in all Sections and was able to acquire its own Scout Hall on the outskirts of the village.

His Group has always supported County events and has played a major part in village life.

Liam has now completed fifty years in Scouting and was instrumental in organising the Group Reunion of former members earlier this year.

This dedicated Leader has given a lifetime of devoted service both to Scouting and the community, as this application records, and a Gold Merit Award is well justified.”

The following is offered as a more appropriate citation for the same individual:

“Liam has held a number of appointments in his village Group for over fifty-five years. Since the award of the Silver Merit Award in 1995, Liam has continued to give devoted service to the Group and County.

He managed the Group team well and was a regular visitor to the Group’s Sections, supporting the Scouters particularly by standing in for them when illness, holidays and business commitments have threatened meetings.

In the 1990’s he was the leading light in raising £63,000 to enable the Group to build its own Scout Hall, and thanks to his dedication, the property is well maintained. For the past eight years Liam has organised and run a Christmas Bazaar efficiently, the profits from which have been used to maintain and upgrade Group equipment.

On retiring as Group Leader two years ago, he became Group Chairman and, in this capacity has continued his outstanding support of the Group, including recruiting some young blood onto the Group Council.

Liam’s work for cordial relations with the local Girl Guides was recognised in 2004 when he was awarded the Guide Thanks Badge.

The County has long recognised his reliability and soundness of judgement: he has acted as Parade Marshal for the Founder’s Day Parade for the last twenty-three years. Since 1989 he has officiated as Campcraft Team Lead in the annual Regional / County Shield competition. In 1996, he inaugurated the annual Regional / County Carol Service of which he has been the organiser ever since.

Liam’s most exceptional service to Scouting over almost half a century is worthy of special recognition.”

NB. It is not enough for the citation to be a mere narrative. It must contain qualitative judgements.
